

Windmill

This type of windmill pumped water from the ground. Water from a windmill was used for feeding livestock, plants and people. The wing-like shape of the blades allows wind to flow freely, lifting the blades, creating a continual turning motion.

